Systemic Coaching

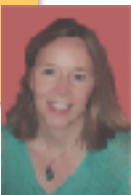

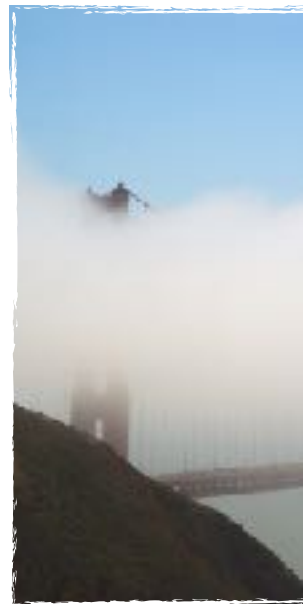

Leading From The Emerging Future

Every group—be it a team, department or company—organizes around its structures, processes and relationships to produce predictable outcomes. In fact, every organization is perfectly designed to create exactly the experiences and outcomes it is already getting. One of the most vexing challenges is to figure out how to influence these self-organizing dynamics to create better outcomes and engaging work environments where people thrive.

This workshop is for leaders, organizational change professionals, coaches and anybody who is just plain curious. Systemic Coaching is an effective way to realign teams, resolve conflicts, restart stalled initiatives, resolve cross-functional tensions, and rescue projects.

We will use Systemic Constellations to gain deeper insights into organizational dynamics. We will use your specific work situations to identify which leadership moves have the power to create movement.
